The Bold and the Beautiful

These four beauty products are all you'll need to turn heads in 2010

Consider Rococo one of the U.K.'s best beauty imports since Twiggy's lashes. The wildly popular nail polish ($16.50 at Space NK, New York) comes in vivid colors and gorgeous gold-flecked formulas that pop up on runways in New York, Paris and Milan. Get your hands on a bottle now before the dreaded wait-list rears its ugly head. Speaking of highly covetable products, Nars updated its wildly famous Orgasm blush to an all-over liquid called Nars Orgasm Illuminator ($29 at Sephora, New York, available February 1). The shade is still that perfect blend of peach and pink, and a few dabs add instant radiance. But as they say, the eyes have it. To that end, those geniuses at L'Oréal have made some medical advances in lash lengthening, bringing the technology to the masses with L'Oréal Paris Concentrated Lash Boosting Serum ($15 at drugstores citywide). After just one month, lashes will be lush, fuller and begging for some batting action. And finally, who would have thought that a strand-softening serum would garner as much buzz as Moroccanoil Treatment ($39 at Louis Licari Salon, New York)? This Argan-oil formula strengthens, nourishes and transforms locks into the picture of health and beauty. Now get to shopping!

"I love Aveeno moisturizing body wash and skin oil. I can't live without it. Every time I run out, I go to Duane Reade to stock up."
